JOHN V. MARA, President-Treasurer WELLINGTON T. MARA, Secretary WILLIAM ABBOTT, Publicity Director GIANT PROSPECTS 1948 VERY GOOD

TEW York's Giants of 1948 are one of the youngest and most inexperienced squads in the club's 24 year history. A study of the roster will reveal that only fifteen players have been with the club before this season. Only Reagan, Sulaitis and Captain Len Younce have been in the National League more than 2 years. Despite the many rookies on the roster, however, the Giants do not lack players of established stature at the key positions. A line composed of Cannady, Younce, Dobelstein, White and Coulter, with Poole at one end can hold its own with the best. In the backfield, Governali on the offense, Reagan on the defense and Sulaitis as jack-of-all-trades, lend stability to the fast new backs.

MANY NEW BACKS & ENDS

It is in the backfield and at the ends that the most sweeping alterations have been made. Built upon the quarterbacking and passing genius of Paul Governali, the Giants' backs possess all the weapons of attack in abundance. Charley Conerly broke all existing collegiate passing records last year at Mississippi. He is also a good runner and a fine kicker as is Art Faircloth who finished the season at the Polo Grounds last year after leading the American League in passing at Jersey City. Skippy Minisi was a fabulously effective left handed passer as well as a scintillating open field runner at Penn. "Joe the Jet" Scott is a thundering, overpowering runner and a great pass receiver. Both Minisi and Scott excel at returning punts and kickoffs. Ray Coates and Howard Hartley are a pair of rangy, loose-limbed halfbacks and Frank Williams is a hard-bitten fullback who earns his yardage the hard way. The other speedsters are almost too numerous to mention but who knows but that there will be a Burnett or a Richards hidden away there? If Gene Roberts has recovered from his knee operation he will be hard to keep out of the starting lineup.

RAY POOLE

Only Ray Poole is back from last year's ends. He plays end like a Poole, what more need be said? Bill Swiacki, Bruce Gehrke, Paul Walker and Ken Wiltgen are all outstanding pass receivers. So is Jack Rosenthal former Penn captain who for two years led the American League in pass receiving. Frank Lane, up from the Jersey City farm, and Pete Lanzi of Youngstown are good receivers also and are the crashing type of defensive ends that gladden their coaches' hearts.

With Tex Coulter and Iim White entering their third pro year the tackle squad is built on solid foundations. The huge John

ALL-STAR GIANT GROUP—Four former All-Americans crashed the above informal gathering of gridiron luminaries who will perform for the Giants this season. Left to right, Bill Swiacki: Columbia's 1947 All-American end; Chuck Conerly, Mississippi's 1947 All-American triple-threat; Paul Governali, Columbia's 1942 All-American triple-threat; Bruce Gehrke, Columbia's 1947 star end; Tony (Skippy) Minisi, Pennsylvania's 1947 All-American halfback.

Treadway made good in a brief trial at the end of last season, and, if Bill Schuler can get a leave of absence from his job, the Giants will have four tackles tried and true. The new tackles are both large and numerous. The two smallest, Bill Erickson and Don Ettinger, at 210 pounds each, may prove to be the best. Both will be conceding many pounds to their National League rivals but have the speed and agility that will be so important in the Giant scheme this year.

Len Younce, the incomparable, Bob Dobelstein, Bill Hachten and Bill Miklich are the returning guards. Ed Royston, who was secured in a trade for Frank Liebel, may be the outstanding newcomer. He is big, fast and combative. Two others, George Reiss, former Fordham captain and John Hanzel of Guilford, are close-coupled speed boys, swift and sure blockers on offense.

John Cannady, last season's outstanding rookie lineman of the league, heads the center squad which includes John Wolosky anchor of Penn States' great 47 line, Jim Brieske, Michigan's "Dead Eye Dick" place kicker and Carl Fennema of Washington University.

HISTORY OF THE GIANTS

THIS is the New York Giants' twenty-fourth year in the National Football League. The club's history is rich in achievement and prestige. From a very humble start in the spring of 1925, the grid Giants have accomplished one of the most remarkable successes in the world of sport.

This is how it all happened. From a very faltering and misty beginning the new spawning pastime of pro football in 1920 was patched together in the formation of the American Professional Football Association. Membership clubs were mostly in the mid-west. Jim Thorpe, famed gridiron hero, was president.

The following year the American Professional Football League was reorganized. The late Joe F. Carr was appointed president. He held that office until his death in 1938. In 1922 the league was renamed the National Football League. In 1925, Carr and his young struggling league made tremendous strides. That was the year the New York Giants entered the circuit and Harold (Red) Grange finished his meteoric college gridiron career at Illinois to play professionally with the Chicago Bears.

Carr believed—and wisely—that his league would never become a real major organization without New York representation. In the spring of 1925 he interested Billy Gibson, then a national sports figure in the purchase of a New York franchise, While Gibson was seriously pondering the proposition he was visited by Carr, anxious to know how things were progressing. Another unexpected visitor that spring afternoon was Tim Mara, another well-known sportsman.

HOW THE GIANTS WERE BORN

At the time neither Gibson or Mara knew anything about football: Born of inspiration, Gibson suggested to Carr that Mara was the proper one to introduce profootball in the big city. The league prexy warned that anyone who purchased the franchise would likely lose $40,000 or more the first season.

"How much does the franchise cost?" Mara asked.

"Twenty-five hundred dollars," Carr replied.

"I'll take it" was the quick answer of the man who had a penchant for taking chances. Bob Folwell, former Annapolis coach, was engaged to mentor the new club. Players were signed. Uniforms selected. In due time everything was in readiness. Promoters' hopes pointed toward the sky. The opening home game with the colorful Frankford Yellow Jackets proved a rude disappointment. In the middle twenties New York football fans enjoyed an extensive menu of college attractions. They were hardly luke warm for the new play-for-pay.

73,000 TURNED OUT FOR GRANGE GAME

President Carr's prediction of a first season loss of $40,000 soon proved to be an understatement. Mara turned deaf ears to friendly hints to give up the costly venture. The outlook was bleak, indeed. But a magical change happened the first Sunday in December. On a glorious sunny day over 73,000 frenzied spectators stormed the Polo Grounds to see "Red" Grange and the Chicago Bears oppose the blue-and-red Giants. The big magnet, of course, was Grange, the former Illinois Galloping Ghost. The Bears won 19 to 7. But Grange intercepted a pass and galloped for a touchdown. That was the big thrill the new customers came to see. That 73.000 still remains the record attendance for pro football anywhere. It is still the Polo Grounds' record football attendance.

One costly aftermath of that Grange game was the formation of an opposition league and a battle for thin patronage in 1926. It was Mara and his Giants who carried the brunt of that "war." It was also Mara who dictated peace terms to Charley Pyle, who started the ill-fated opposition circuit, in August, 1927 at Saratoga Springs.

TOUGH UPHILL BATTLE FOR PATRONAGE

The Giants had a tough uphill battle for patronage until 1929. Mainly, it had been an educational endeavor to convince the football public the pros offered the best attraction. Ever since 1929 the fans have been coming to the Giants' games in increasing numbers and enthusiasm. In 1946 the club scored its all-time high home attendance record with an average of 52,000 for eight games. Their total for 1946 was 626,000 for twelve league games and four exhibitions.

The Giants have won three pro football championships, (1927-1934-1938). Also eight Eastern championships. The 1927 eleven rates the best of all Giant teams. It won 11 games, tied 1, lost 1. It scored 173 points to opponents 20, still a National Fooball League defensive record.

The New York club raised millions for charity and war purposes. The biggest single amount was $155,000 turned over to Mayor James Walker's New York City unemployment fund in 1930.

Many famous names have been on the club's rosters. Just to mention a few: Mel Hein, Ken Strong, Tuffy Leemans, Ed Danowski, Jim Thorpe, Cal Hubbard, Al Blozis, "Red" Badgro, "Butch" Gibson, Dale Burnett, Steve Owen, Jim Poole, Len Younce. Steve Owen joined the club in 1926 as a star tackle. He played until midseason of 1931, when he and Benny Friedman, former Michigan All-American, were appointed co-coaches. Owen has been head coach since the start of 1932.

A few years ago Tim Mara turned over the club franchise to his sons, John V. and Wellington T., who have been successfully carrying out the founder's policies.

STEVE OWEN - HEAD COACH

Owen's eighteenth coaching season with the Giants, his twenty-third with the New York Club. "Stout" Steve, as the big fellow is widely known, produced two championship elevens. They were the 1934 Giants, after defeating the Chicago Bears 30-13, and the Green Bay Packers in 1938, 23-17.

Owen-coached teams played 205 championship games to the start of the 1948 season. In addition were nearly seventy-five exhibitions. Championship standings: Won 114, lost 75, tied 16. Points 3064. Opponents' points, 2348. The grizzled veteran is third National Football League coach in length of service. Only Curley Lambeau of the Green Bay Packers and George Halas, Chicago Bears, served longer.

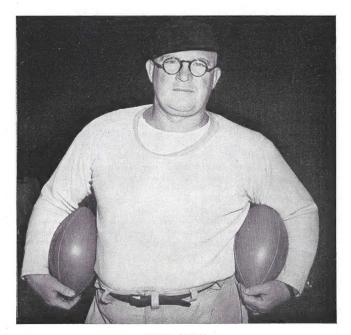

Stout Steve joined the New York club in 1926, one year after it was started. Weighing 225 pounds and unusually strong from rugged living in the southwest, the big fellow made good quickly as regular tackle. He became one of the league's all-time great tackles. Owen was captain of the 1927 championship eleven that won eleven games, tied one, lost one. It rolled up 172 points to only 20 for opponents. That remarkable defensive feat still stands as a record. That 1927 eleven, with a paucity of bignames, ranks as the Giants' greatest team.

CHILDHOOD IN RUGGED WEST LAND

Fifty-years old last April the Giants' mentor was born in Enid. Oklahoma, formerly wild, wideopen Indian Territory. At an early age, Steve displayed unusual skill riding horses, in those days a major frontier sport. He rode one of his father's horses in neighborhood races and ran up an impressive winning skein. His prizes were various foods, firearms, saddles, almost anything but money. He actually had youthful ambitions of becoming a professional jockey. But increasing weight, however, soon terminated that idea.

At high school the Giant coach went in for baseball and wrestling. Summers he worked on adjacent oil fields and added much muscle to his big spreading frame. When the First World War broke out Owen's vision failed to meet service requirements. He then joined the Student Army Training Corps at Phillips University. The football coach there was Johnny Maulbetsch, former All-American Michigan fullback. It was Maulbetsch who introduced Steve to football.

STEVE OWEN

Owen completed his college stint in 1921. He returned the next season to coach the Phillips University line. That was the only coaching the veteran did prior to his becoming Giant coach midway in the 1931 season. At that time Steve was undecided whether to make baseball or wrestling his career. Under the trade name of Steve O'Brien, the husky Enid youth had been performing not too badly with some of the wrestling topnotchers.

Owen was ready to embark on another wrestling tour when he received an invitation to play on a pro football team against Jim Thorpe's traveling stars at Oklahoma City. That occasion was an important turning point for Steve. He decided to concentrate on the struggling sport of pro football.

Richard (Red) Smith, Assistant Coach

RED SMITH is back for his fifth season as assistant coach. This time he is in charge of the backs. It is an unusually important assignment because the club has installed the Winged T-formation and the presence of a record batch of rookie backs.

Smith was a star athlete two years at Notre Dame after one season at Lawrence College. He went from the South Bend institution directly to the Baseball Giants and was their catcher in 1926-27. He then performed with Montreal and the Braves before quitting the diamond to devote full time to basketball and football coaching at Seton Hall, Georgetown and Wisconsin.

He was with the Football Giants as quarterback in 1930-31. Previously, he played guard for Green Bay. He returned to coach the Packer line in 1936 and remained until 1944 in the little Wisconsin town. In the last ten years the popular redhead managed to mix baseball with football coaching. At present he is coach of the Chicago Cubs. The veteran has a special gift for developing young baseball and football talent.

Bill Owen - Assistant Coach

BILL OWEN, younger brother of the Giants' head coach, will continue as the club's line mentor this season. As player and coach this will be Bill's seventeenth season in the National Football League. Bill, like Steve, starred as a tackle on the Phillips University eleven. Like his elder brother, Bill became a regular Giant tackle. In 1929 Bill was right tackle and

Bill came off his Kansas farm in 1938 to coach football. He performed double duty with the New York Giants and their Jersey City farm club. Bill's Little Giants won three American Association championships in four years. This will be Bill's sixth season as Giant line coach. Bill and his witty yarns are very popular with the players.

NEW YORK GIANTS NAMED ON

ALL-LEAGUE TEAMS

Mel Hein, who performed fifteen consecutive years with the New York Giants, was accepted as the greatest all-time center, pro or college. The huge former Washington State All-American pivot, won more honors than the thousands of players who have represented the leading pro circuit. Hein joined the New York Club in 1931. He was selected the second best center in the National League that year and the following season. From 1933 through 1940 the former Giant captain won the No. 1 honors. No other league player came close to matching Hein's remarkable performance.

New York Giants who won all-league top honors are shown in the following list:

- 1931: Morris (Red) Badgro, End; "Butch" Gibson, Guard
- 1932: Ray (Red) Flaherty, End
- 1933: Mel Hein, Center; Ray Flaherty, End; Harry Newman, Ouarterback
- 1934: Mel Hein, Center: Ray Flaherty, End; "Happy" Morgan, Tackle
- 1935: Mel Hein, Center; "Happy" Morgan, Tackle; Ed Danowski, Halfback
- 1936: Mel Hein, Center; Tuffy Leemans, Halfback

- 1939: Mel Hein, Center; Tuffy Leemans, Halfback; Jim Poole, End; John Dell Isola, Guard
- 1940: Mel Hein, Center
- 1942: Bill Edwards, Guard
- 1945: Frank Cope, Tackle
- 1946: Len Younce, Guard

SKETCHES OF THE GIANTS

BACKS

AKINS, HAROLD JOHN—Halfback Washington State. Age-24. weight-190, height 5.10. First season with Giants. Has two older brothers in the pro ranks. Credits them with his start on the gridiron. Entered college in 1942, last season 1947. In three years played both halfbacks and fullback. Won two letters in football. Also competed in basketball and the track. Home—Portland. Ore.

COATES, RAY—Halfback. Louisiana State University. Age 24, weight-190, height-6.1. First season with Giants. Triple-threat back who field generalled L. S. U. teams through four successful seasons. Outstanding runner and superb blocker. Brilliant judgment calling players. Also hard-hitting outfielder on college baseball team. Home—New Orleans.

CONERLY, CHARLES—Halfback. Mississippi. Age-24, weight 183, height-6.1. First season with Giants. Conerly came to the New York club as a record-breaking forward passer, who last year smashed all collegiate marks, completing 133 out of 233 passes for 1367 yards and 18 touchdowns. In addition, carried ball 104 times for a rushing average of 4 yards per try. Strong inside type of runner who scored 9 touchdowns and accounted for 162 points. Was the nation's second best ground gainer with over 1700 yards. In punting Conerly ranked 11th in the country with an average of 40.1 yards in 58 kicks. He had only one partially blocked. In 1946 the former Rebel was 7th in the collegiate ranking with an average of 40.9 yards in 57 kicks.

Conerly's 1947 total offense record:

	Number	Yards	Average	Touchde	Touchdowns by
	Plays	Gained	Gain	Rush	Pass	Points
Kentucky	41	181	4.42	1	1	12
Florida	33	149	4.51	0	1	6
So. Carolina	20	124	6.20	0	3	18
Vanderbilt	42	126	3.00	0	0	0
Tulane	22	148	6.73	1	3	24
Arkansas	34	183	5.40	0	2	12
Lo. State	35	160	4.56	3	0	18
Tennessee	46	285	6.20	2	4	36
Chattanooga	37	242	6.54	1	2	18
Miss. State	26	185	7.11	1	2	18
TOTALS	336	1783	5.31	9	18	162

Charles first attracted the attention of pro scouts in his sophomore year at Ole Miss. His college career was interrupted by the war. But the Washington Redskins did not forget and when the time came that his class would have graduated his name was placed on Washington's selective list. Because Conerly still had two years of college competition he was a "bargain" selection, being the 11th name on the Redskin list of 1945.

When the Redskins acquired Harry Gilmer last fall they felt they could afford to trade Conerly in order to strengthen themselves at some other position. So the Giants traded Howie Livingston, speedy back, and the rights to another player whose identity has not yet been disclosed, for the right to negotiate with Conerly.

Conerly invested his football earnings in a farm near his home, Clarksdale, Miss.

FAIRCLOTH, ARTHUR—Halfback. North Carolina State. Age 27, weight-196, height-6. Second season with Giants. Joined the New York club for last three 1947 games after having served an apprenticeship with Jersey City Giants. Last season led the American League in forward passing. His record was 174 attempts for 92 completions, 1,222 yards and only seven interceptions. He passed for 8 touchdowns. Faircloth also was a splendid punter. Came to the Giants from the Boston Yanks of the National Football League. Home— Washington, D. C.

GORDON, BOB—Halfback. North Carolina State. Age-25, weight-185, height-6. First season with Giants. A speedy wingback in the single wing formation. Excellent pass catcher. Married. Two children. Home—Washington, D. C.

GOVERNALI, PAUL—Halfback. Columbia. Age-27, weight-195, height-5.11. Paul played four games with the Boston Yanks and eight with the Giants last year. He joined the New York club when it was at low ebb. Nevertheless, Governali rose to the occasion and starred with his passing. His New York record was 186 attempts for 72 completions good for 1,350 yards and 13 touchdowns.

As a National Football League freshman in 1946, Governali finished third in forward passing ranking. With a young club and operating from the T for the first time, Paul finished ahead of great passers like Sammy Baugh, Paul Christman and many others. He completed 83 out of 192 passes for 1293 yards and 13 touchdowns. As for Yanks records Paul broke 14 club marks and tied one. His background before joining the Yanks was solidly star-studded. With a mediocre Columbia team from 1940 through 1942, he shattered 12 records set up by Sid Luckman which Columbia authorities believed would never be surpassed.

In his last season, every Columbia rival set up defenses for Paul alone—Stop Governali and you stop the Lions. Yet he went on to connect with 87 out of 165 passes for 1442 yeards. This yardage was "tops" into the nation and it was quite a feat since some of the boys flipping for colleges that season were Frankie Sinkwich, Glenn Dobbs, Angelo Bertelli, and Otto Graham—all these four had great teams behind them but couldn't match Paul needless to say, Governali wound up an unanimous All-America choice and capped it with the Maxwell Trophy, an annual award to the "outstanding football player in the nation."

On January 1, 1943, Governali starred for the East against the West, and the following August he took part in the All-Star game at Chicago. Then he was commissioned in the Marines. Paul is married. Home—New York.

HARTLEY, HOWARD—Halfback. Duke. Age-23, weight-185, height-6. First season with Giants. Hartley is a real speed specialist. A 100-yard dash man on the track, he was clocked for the distance in 9.8. Also is an excellent pass catcher and better than fair passer. Good defensive and general all-round back. Frequent All-Southern mention in his sophomore and junior years. Last season his football progress was retarded by a stubborn charley horse. Home—Ravenswood, West Va.

IVERSEN, CHRIS—Quarterback. Oregon. Age-28, weight-210, height-6.2. Second season with Giants. Last year Chris proved himself a strong line backer and blocker. Star blocking back for three years at Oregon and captain in his senior year. Iversen was co-captain of the West team that defeated the East 13-9 in the annual Shrine game in San Francisco January 1, 1947. Home Petaluma, Calif.

MINISI, TONY (SKIPPY)—Halfback. University of Pennsylvania. Age-21, weight-190, height-5.11. First season with Giants. Minisi was the number 1 draft choice of both pro football leagues last year for the excellent reason that he had been an outstanding performer for both Navy and Pennsylvania over the last three gridiron seasons. His exploits have been spectacular, both defensively and offensively. Sport fans will recall one of the great sport photos of 1945 showing Minisi of Navy saving the Notre Dame battle by tackling Colella in such a manner that the ball was a whisker short of the goal line and victory for the Irish. Returning to Pennsylvania for the 1946-1947 seasons Skippy was the man Penn's opponents pointed for in every game. Yet over that period the talented Minisi scored 17 touchdowns, rushed 170 times for 840 yards and completed 60 of 82 passes for 562 yards. A southpaw, Skippy was especially effective in the pitching department. The Newark lad also is an expert handler of kicks. Home—Newark, N. J.

PIPKIN, JOYCE—Quarterback. Arkansas. Age-24, weight-203, height-6.2. First season with Giants. Big, rugged blocking back of Arkansas' Dixie Bowl champions. Can really belt the ends out of the way. Hard worker and splendid team player. Very capable line backer. Married. Two children. Home—Malverne, Arkansas.

PULATTIE, FRANCIS—Quarterback. Southern Methodist. Age-26, weight-215, height-6.2. First season with Giants. Frank cleared the way for Doak Walker on S. M. U.'s Cotton Bowl eleven. A 10-second man Pullatic also is very rough and durable. Married. Three children. Home—Waco. Texas.

REAGAN, FRANK—Halfback. University of Pennsylvania. Age-28, weight-180, height-6. Fourth season with Giants. Starred on defense last year. Led National Football League pass interceptors with 10 caught for 203 yards. Tied for the circuit's punting championship with 61 kicks for 42.8 average per punt. Longest punt 67 yards. One of the few returning veteran Giant backs this season. One of Penn's foremost gridiron heroes. Former All-American triple-threat luminary. Married. Two children. Home—Philadelphia.

ROBERTS, GENE—Halfback. Chattanooga. Age-24, weight-188, height-6. Second season with Giants. Early season injuries seriously hampered him in the 1947 campaign. Expected this year to flash the form that made him the nation's second highest collegiate scorer and ground gainer for Chattanooga in 1946. In that year Gene scored 18 touchdowns, kicked 9 extra points, ran the ball 167 times for 1,113 yards, a total only 212 yards less than the combined Blanchard and Davis totals. Very fast. In college ran the 100 and 440. Married. Home—Kansas City, Mo.

SCOTT, JOSEPH—Fullback. University of San Francisco. Age-22, weight-194, height-6.1. One of the most sought after college stars. Big, blonde Joe was second on the Giants' player draft list. West Coast talent scouts called Scott a sure professional star this season. Scott combines unusual speed, strength and ruggednes. A hard runner, with splendid feinting and change of pace, the former Frisco star was a consistent long gainer. Joe also was an exceptional pass receiver. A bruised thigh retarded Joe early last year. Married. Home—Murchison, Texas.

SIEGLE, JULES—Halfback. Northwestern. Age-25, weight-203, height-6.1. First season with Giants. Jules attracted much attention in the last annual North-South game. He is extremely speedy for his size. Has been timed for the 100-yard dash in 9.8. Originally an end in high school. Siegle played halfback last season. He is right at home in every backfield position except quarterback. Northwestern used Jules a great deal as a pass catcher because of his unusual speed. Home—East Chicago, Ind.

SULAITIS, JOSEPH—Quarterback. Jersey City High School. Age 27. weight-210, height-6.2. Fifth season with Giants. In point of service Joe will be the second oldest Giant in the youngest squad the Polo Grounds club ever assembled. Without college training the New Jersey lad has developed into a fine utility player. He's big, strong and always willing. Joe has performed in every backfield position as well as at end. He also is a good passer and receiver. Sulaitis is slated to play quarterback under the center in the Giants' new Winged T-formation. Married. One child. Home—Hackensack, N. J.

TUNNELL, EMLEN—Iowa. Age 23, weight 187, height 6.1. First year with Giants. Triple-threat ace in 1947. Excellent passer and pass catcher. Caught three touchdowns passes and carried receptions 155 yards against Indiana. Sparked late drive against Notre Dame. Home—Garrett Hill. Pa.

WILLIAMS, FRANK—Utah State. Age 26, weight 212, height 6. First year with Giants. Strong candidate for Giant fullback position. Possesses unusual speed and drive. Tried out for United States Olympic team. Home—Salt Lake City, Utah.

CENTERS

BRIESKE, JAMES—Michigan. Age-25, Weight-202, height-6.2. Top candidate to be the Giants new point-after-touchdown kicking specialist. In his final collegiate game, Jim leaped into prominence when he established a Rose Bowl record of 7 straight conversions in Michigan's 49-0 rout of USC. That was merely a fitting climax for what had been going on for 4 years at the Ann Arbor college. During his collegiate career Jim kicked 127 points after touchdown. Michigan had very few occasions to attempt field goals. But Brieske is well qualified in that department also fine offensive pivot. Home—Harbor Beach, Michigan.

CANNADY, JOHN—Indiana. Age 24, weight 220, height 6.1. Second season with Giants. John played backfield and center in the Big 9 and continued that division of duties during his first campaign with the New York club. Starting as a blocking back, Cannady shifted to center when trouble developed at that position where the Giants' Mel Hein became football's all-time No. 1 center in an unbroken 15-year span. Rough durable, a savage line backer, John quickly made good in the very important pivot spot. Home—Charleston, S. C.

WOLOSKY, JOHN—Penn State. Age 23, weight 210, height 5.11. First season with Giants. John backed up the Penn State line last season yielded exactly 154 yards in 9 regular season games for a niggardly average of 17 yards per game. Bob Higgins, Nittany Lion coach, said of Wolosky: "He can make good on any football team." John also caught for the Penn State nine. Home—Isabella, Pa.

GUARDS

DOBELSTEIN, BOB—Tennessee. Age 26, weight 212, height 5.11. Third season with Giants. For the last two years did a great job as regular guard for the Giants. Fast, rugged, hard low charge and pulls out well. Came to the New York club in a trade with the Chicago Cardinals. Home—Bridgeport, Conn.

GARZONI, MIKE—University of Southern California. Age 26, weight 220, height 5.11. First season with Giants. Last year saw Mike as a Washington Redskin. Played his college ball with USC and was chosen All-Pacific Coast guard in 1946. Home—Santa Clara, Calif.

HACHTEN, BILL—Stanford. Age 23, weight 210, height 6. Bill was one of the best college guards in 1946. An early season injury slowed him last year, but he began to display his real form toward the end of the campaign. Very fast coming out of the line to lead plays. Unusually aggressive. Tough competitor. Home—Huntington Park, Calif.

MIKLICH, BILL—Idaho. Age 27, weight 208, height 6. Second season with Giants. Bill started with the New York club last year as a blocking back but finished the season as guard. A hard, sure tackler and blocker, who likes to play. Home—West Allis, N. J.

REISS, GEORGE—Fordham. Age 25, weight 212, height 5.11. First season with Giants. Last of the pre-war Fordham gridiron Rams. George was a star guard on the 1942 Maroon team. Returned after the war to play the 1946-'47 seasons in the latter of which he was captain. Home—West Belmar, N. J.

ROYSTON, ED.—Wake Forest. Age 25, weight 220, height 6. First season with Giants. Obtained from Chicago Cardinals in trade for Frank Liebel, veteran end. Ed was one of the top collegiate guards last year. Fast down field, excellent blocker, a bulwark on defense, aggressive and resourceful. Played for Sampson Navy eleven in 1944. Named on Army's

All-Opponents' team. Army was national champion that year. Returned to Wake Forest for 1946-'47 seasons in each of which he received All-America mention. Home—Baltimore.

YOUNCE, LEN—Oregon State. Age 31, weight 210, height 6.1. Sixth season with Giants. Oldest member of the Polo Grounds squad in point of service. Captain of the 1948 Giants and rightly deserves the honor. A natural football player and leader. Frequently ranked one of the National Football League's leading guards. Popular Len is a master of guard and team play. Very effective backing up the line and covering passes. A fiery contestant at all times. Smart calling defensive signals. Also excellent punter, kick-off and place kick man. Second in league punting in 1944. Married. 2 children. Home—Portland, Oregon.

TACKLES

COULTER, DEWITT—West Point. Age 23, weight 245, height 6.4. Third season with Giants. Rated West Point's greatest all-time tackle. Named on practically every All-American team in 1945. Also won honors boxing and throwing weights. Joined the New York club after being dropped from academy due to mathematical deficiency. Immediately made good with the pros. Anxious to play a few more years of football. Plans commercial art career. Married. 1 child. Home—Fort Worth, Texas.

ERICKSON, WILLIAM—Mississippi. Age 26, weight 210, height 6.2. First season with Giants. A local lad from Hollis, Long Island. Bill came to the New York club rated 0le Miss' best tackle in a decade. One of the south's leading 1947 linemen. Exceptionally fast and agile. Fully experienced in all phases of offense and defense tackle play. Home—Hollis, Long Island.

ETTINGER, DON (RED)—Kansas. Age 25, weight 210, height 6.2. First season with Giants. All-Big 6 tackle last year. Started as fullback. Also played guard and center. Still has speed of a back. Very strong and durable. Especially formidable on offense. Married. 2 children. Home—Sunflower, Kansas.

PETERSON, HOWARD—Morningside. Age 25, weight 245, height 6.3. First season with Giants. After one year at Notre Dame Howard went to war. On his return transferred to Morningside. Very fast for a big man. Home—Sioux City, Iowa.

SCHULER, WILLIAM—Yale. Age 25, weight 215, height 6. Second season with Giants. Bill was one of the best tackles Yale had in years. Coming to the club's training camp last season with the Giant tackle berths filled by Tex Coulter and Jim White, Bill soon proved to be too good a player to leave on the bench. The solution was found when Coulter was shifted to an end position. That enabled the former Bulldog star to operate as the regular left tackle. Married. Home—Birmingham, Alabama.

STAPLEY, STANLEY—Brigham Young. Age 25, weight 220 height 6.2. First season with Giants. Stan started his collegiate career at University (Continued on tage Tayenty) of Utah where he won an all-conference award. Transferring to Brigham Young after service duties he played tackle, later shifted to guard. Rated high in his new assignment. Home—Junior Mesa, Arizona.

STEWART, THOMAS—Chattanooga. Age 25, weight 220, height 6.2. First season with Giants. "Bo" started his collegiate career at the University of Tennessee and played 40 minutes in the Rose Bowl game of 1944 as a sophomore. In 1945 he returned to his home-town college of Chattanooga where he was selected on the Little America first eleven. Home—Chattanooga.

TREADAWAY, JOHN—Hardin-Simmons. Age 29, weight 250, height 6.4. Second season with Giants. Played with Jersey City last year Big John looked so good the New York club brought him up for the last four games. He showed enough in those four contests to convince coach Steve Owen he wanted John back this season. Married. Home—Stony Brook, Long Island.

WHITE, JIM—Notre Dame. Age 27, weight 228, height 6.2. Third season with Giants. Jim made a very quick jump from college football to rank as one of pro football's outstanding tackles in his first year of play. Bothered by a training camp injury for most of last year Jim showed his best form in the last half of the campaign. One of Notre Dame's great all-time tackles. All-American in 1943. Married. Home—Dumont, New Jersey.

ENDS

DI STASIO, JOSEPH—Cornell. Age 21, weight 182, height 6.1. First season with Giants. A three-year regular at Cornell. Particularly strong on defense. Played in the 1946 East-West game as a sophomore. A Newark Academy student, Joe performed with Tony Minisi three years at that school, and three years against him. The two Newark lads will be reunited again this season as Giants. Home—Newark, New Jersey.

GEHRKE, BRUCE—Columbia. Age 22, weight 190, height 6.2. First season with Giants. Flanking the Columbia line on the other side of Bill Swiacki, Bruce was thought of no less highly by the Lion coaching staff and rooting sections. A sound all-round end, especially effective on offense. Starred on Columbia's Ivy League championship basketball team. Also a regular on the baseball nine. Home—Floral Park, L. I.

LANE, FRANK—Seward Park H. S. Age 22, weight 205, height 6.2. First season with Giants. A "Giant" find Frank decided, after service, it was too late to start college. Played with Jersey City last year. His rugged defense performances attracted coach Steve Owen's attention and he recommended a New York contract for Lane. Home—New York City.

LANZI, PETER—Youngstown. Age 24, weight 205, height 5.11½. First season with Giants. Brought up in the sports conscious steel city of Youngstown, Peter last season achieved a goal every school boy dreams of when he was selected in a Radio poll, Youngstown's outstanding sports personality. The reason was obvious—after a high school football and basketball (All Ohio) career, Pete starred at end for Youngstown for three years and captained the team. Sensational pass receiver. Home—Youngstown POOLE, RAY—Mississippi. Age 26, weight 215, height 6.3. Second season with Giants. The second of the famous Poole brothers of Mississippi and Giant gridiron fame. Ray carried the tradition of the family and did very well last year with the New York club. Hard to gain around or through defensively, he led the club in pass receptions with 23 and was second behind Ken Strong in scoring with 24 points. Ray was Charley Conerly's favorite receiver at Ole Miss in 1946. Reunited again the pair should win additional acclaim this season. Home—Gloster, Miss.

REINKING, DICK—S. M. U. Age 21, weight 185, height 6.2. First season with Giants. Excellent pass receiver. Good blocker and defensive end. Coast sports writers raved over his play when S. M. U. played U. C. L. A. Received All-American mention. Home—Dallas, Tex.

SWIACKI, BILL—Columbia. Age 23, weight 195, height 6.2. First season with Giants. Bill topped the Giant fan balloting for players they would most like to see in 1948. The New York club obtained the Columbia star in a trade that sent All-American Davis of Georgia Tech to the Yanks. Swiacki's exploits last season were so spectacular that no repetition is necessary except to call to mind the Army game when his acrobatic pass catches snapped the great West Point streak of 32 games without defeat. This year Bill should be making those catches for the Giants from the throwing arms of his fellow Columbia alumnus Paul Governali as well as from Charley Conerly, Mississippi, and Tony Minisi, Penn. Home—Southbridge, Mass.

WALKER, PAUL FREDERICK—Yale. Age 24, weight 210, height 6.3. First season with Giants. Yale 1945 football captain. Unanimous 1944 All-American selection. The former Bulldog was a smashing end with unusual skill catching forward passes. One of Yale's greatest all-round athletes. Won three letters each in football, basketball, baseball. Comes from noted athletic family. His father was All-American 1904-6 at Chicago U. Brother Blake won six letters in three sports at Yale. Home—New York City.

WILTGEN, KEN—Northwestern. Age 22, weight 192, height 6.1. First season with Giants. One of the Mid-West's best ends last year. Three years regular end for Northwestern. Starred in last North-South game. Played in New York in 1943 when he caught winning touchdown to win national prep school championship. Home—Evanston, Ill.
